The 1954 Arena

is reverently dedicated to Christ, the King by His knights to be. In Confirmation we became spiritually eligible for training as active knights or soldiers of Christ. Here at Canisius we received that training in all its phases—spiritual; scholastic; athletic—so that we could serve Him better in adult life. Canisius has been for us the arena in which we crusaders have exercised ourselves and made ourselves strong in soul, mind, and body. Since our training during these years has been dedicated to the service of Our Lord it is fitting that the account of these years recorded here in the pages of the "Arena" should likewise be dedicated to Christ, the King. To our dedication we also join a consecration and a pledge to serve Him as faithful Catholics in the arena of life.

In Memoriam . . .

When Robert J. McCoskey died on June 9, 1953 the students of Canisius High School lost a valuable teacher and well liked faculty member. Mr. McCoskey was born on March 18, 1924. He was Canisius through and through for he matriculated at both the high school and the college. When he graduated from the college in 1945, he came directly to Canisius where he taught American History, Civics, and Health until the time of his death. Requiescat in pace.

Your first impressions in September at Canisius—a huge strange building around which you are shepherded by black-garbed men during the retreat—a chandelier decorated library in which you listen attentively (well, for a while anyway) as Father Kleber drives home a point in one of his talks—a mixture, buildings and Catholicism that will remain an integral part of your lives during the next four years

Again in October your impressions were a curious mixture, but the highlight was the communion breakfast. You and your dad receive together at St Michael's, take a brisk walk to the Statler and the smoke filled comradeship of the breakfast room. After two hours of conversation, speeches, and the perennial jokes, you were ready for the trip home, full of orange juice, bacon and eggs, and fellowship

November finds your mind filled with flying foot-balls and soaring clears. The big impression is made by the pre-game rally almost more than from the games themselves. The air is tense with electric excitement; out flash a blur of cheerleaders. Earth shaking cheers fill the auditorium: feet grind the floors into a imaginary powder. Every inch of body and soul bursts out in enthusiasm that settles down into a fervent flame as the Alma Mater fills every nook and cranny of the aud with warmth and confidence.

December: The preparations for Christmas begin early and you have a daily reminder of the Advent season in the sodality mite box drive when you make your first Christmas gifts. The warm glow of the season begins to pervade the school as the teachers take time out to make comments on the coming season or to bring in appropriate Christmas readings for the class. Finally the Christmas assembly comes and the reverent tableaux and stirring Christmas carols send you home for the vacation with glowing spirits

January: You start back to class with the coming exams looming on the horizon. A verb-form contest for all the Freshman classes serves to improve your grasp on the elusive forms of laudo, mitto and so on. You sit low in your chair hoping that your name will not be called. Somehow or other, though, the judges manage to single you out to let others profit by your mistakes. Well anyway, you did not want the holiday that went to the winners. It would have meant working twice as hard the next day.

February: Well you survived the first term exams so you finally begin to feel at home and you sense that you "belong" at Canisius. Along with that feeling goes a greater appreciation for the teachers with whom you have been working since September. You realize that all the faculty members, whatever their physical appearance or teaching methods or courses, are sincerely interested in you. When you begin to respond to that interest you have begun the most enjoyable and educational phase of your stay here at Canisius.

March: "Latin? What's that?" Who cares what Latin is on Shrove Tuesday when the entire school takes time off before the solemn season of Lent to relax. And you do. Maybe you are half-drowned in the pool or beaned with a handball. What does it matter for it is all in fun and fun for all. After it is all over, there is only one question that puzzles you. Why isn't every Tuesday Shrove Tuesday?

April: The classes on the Delaware Avenue side of the school watch the grass turn green. The warm breezes blowing make life indoors a little intolerable. But you keep your spirits high for on a day in the middle of April, you dash through the oak doors to a welcome Spring vacation and Easter. The dreary days of winter are over and for ten days or so you can relax and regroup your forces for the final push to the end of the year

May: The beginning of the end is with us. There are class picnics and excursions. The various activities wind up the year with celebrations to mark the end of another busy season. But finally the time comes when you must stop perusing the newly-arrived yearbook (we hope) and settle down to studying more serious tomes. Spiritual

Activities

IN THE age of the Christian knights, the foundations of life rested firmly on the solid religious and moral principles of the Catholic Church. The educators of the times realized that intellectual and physical development alone would not produce the perfect Christian knight. It was for this reason that a boy's training for knighthood was a thoroughly religious process. And the actions of these Catholic knights reflected the training they had received as youths. Here at Canisius too our education is designed to train us for future life as modern day "knights". Not only in the classroom, but in all our religious activities we are shown how to gear all our actions to the Apostolic Crusade for Christ, the King.

Meeting Christ and themselves face to face

When we faced the first day at Derby, the winds were cold, the sky gray, and our hearts troubled—What would the retreat bring us? As we progressed through all the spiritual exercises, each of us found an answer in his own way: some in the morning in a dimly lit chapel, some in the middle of a discussion in the warmth of the parlor, and some out at the cliff edge or on the beach listening to the pounding surf . . . When we left, the sun was shining and our hearts were glad for we now knew how to live.

The offertory of the Mass recalls to us the spirit in which the days are to be spent.

Not by bread alone does man live, but it does help us through the day.

After lunch, Jenkins and Jacobs try some food for the soul in an hour of quiet reading.

The silence and recollection is broken once—only for an hour of spirited recreation

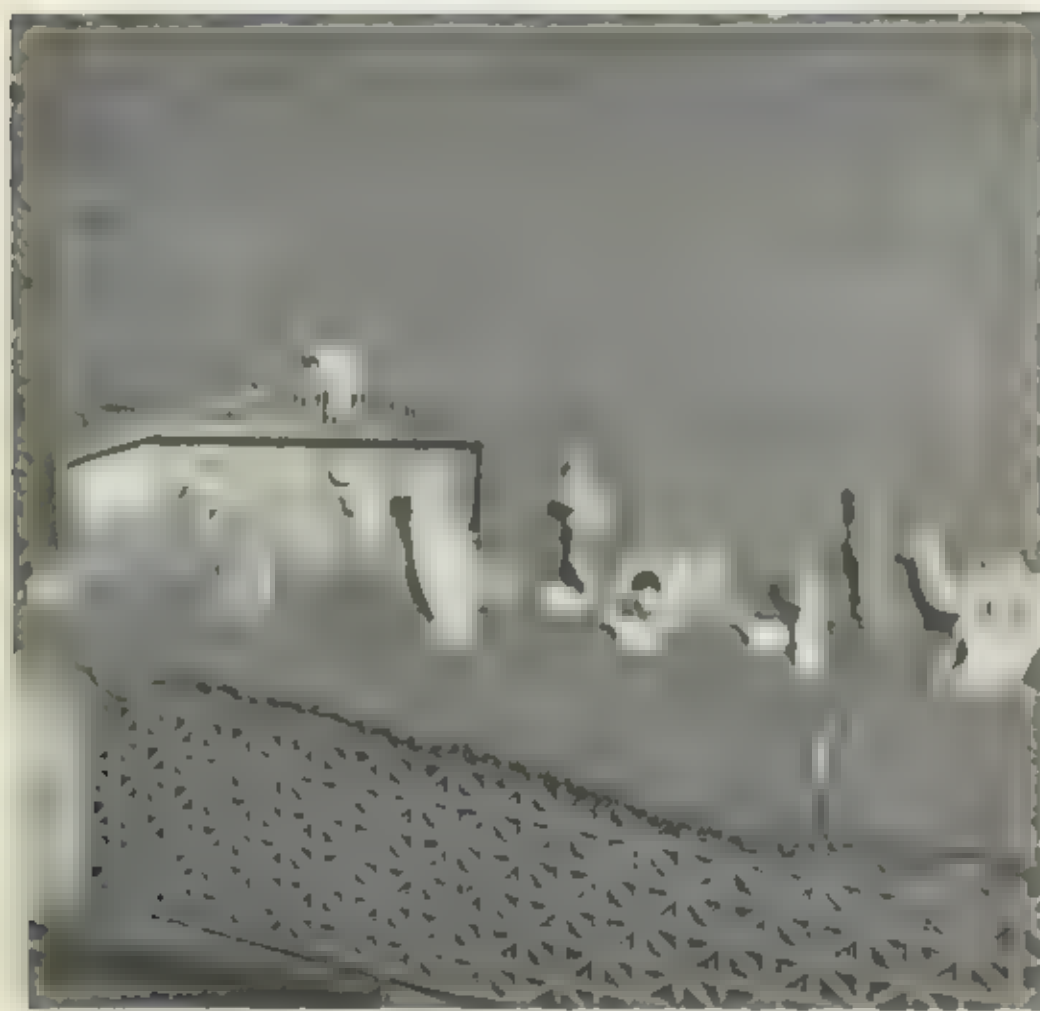

The outdoor stations of the Cross mark the mid-point in the day's activities.

Kirwan and Propster, encouraged by their three day retreat, get ready for the bus trip back to Canisius.

The Seniors plan their final year of training.

Sodalities lead us Per Mariam Ad Jesum.

A typical work of the Frosh Sodality.

Freshman Sodality

The Sodality of Our Lady is a religious group which aims at fostering in its members an ardent devotion, reverence, and filial love toward the Blessed Virgin Mary. Its primary purpose is to make its members good Catholics, sincerely bent on sanctifying themselves. It also seeks to train its members as zealous apostles who will help their neighbors to save and sanctify themselves. In order to have sodalists prepared to achieve this twofold aim, a rigorous period of training and probation is prescribed. During the first year the sodalists must become acquainted with the rules of the sodality and with the spiritual exercises of mental prayers demanded by the Sodality. Toward the close of first year, or at the beginning of second year, once the period of instruction and probation is ended, the probationists are solemnly admitted as full-fledged sodalists.

Sophomore Sodality

Senior Sodality Activity Revolves Around Mary

Augustine, Gustina, Driver, Kerr, Kirwin, and fellow sodalists listen to a report during the Tuesday meeting.

Seated: Richard Hogg, Prefect; Fr. Reed, S.J., Moderator, Kevin Sullivan, Vice-Prefect. Standing Robert Hickey, Secretary; Thomas Manley, Treasurer.

General meetings always close with a short meditation under the direction of Father Reed.

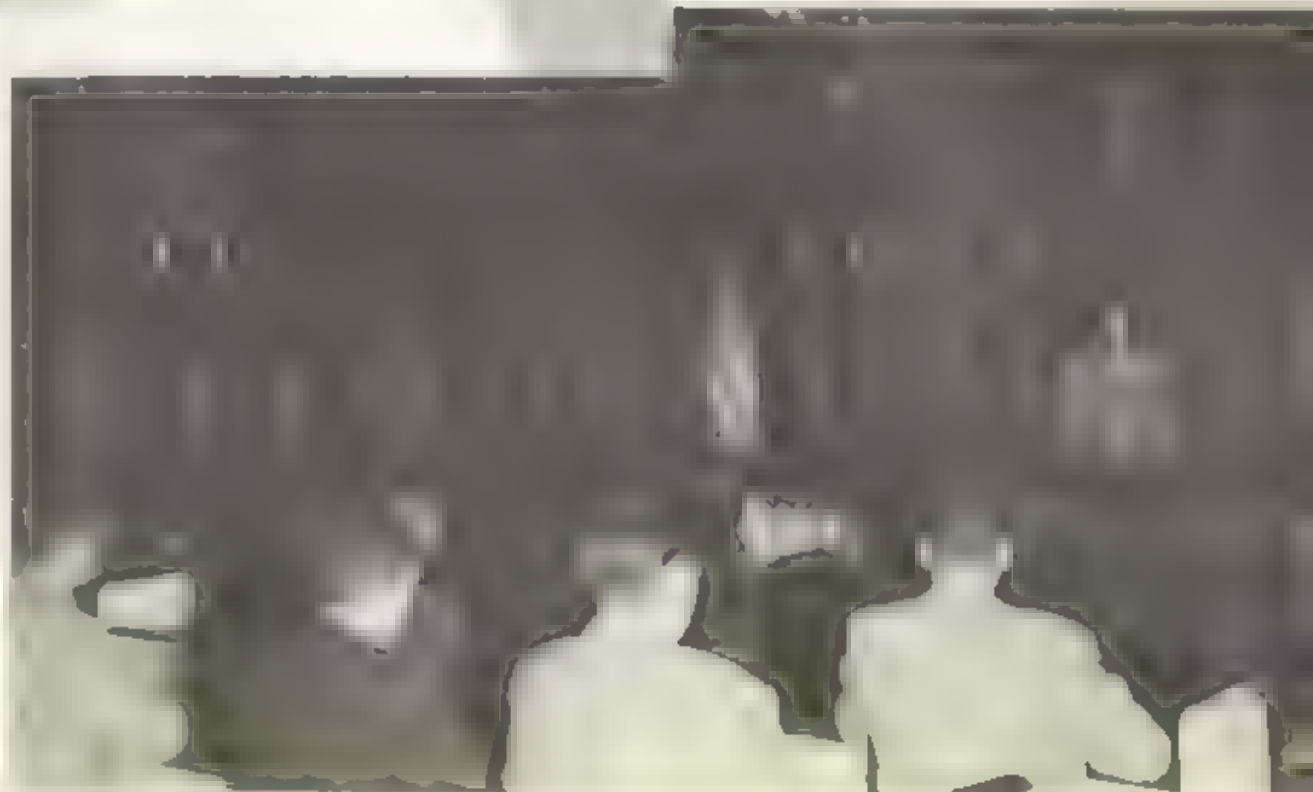

Packing and delivering Christmas baskets for the needy is an important apostolic work of the sodality.

Frequent visits to the chapel help to increase personal sanctity.

Our third sodality group is composed of seniors and juniors. These sodalists attempt further progress to personal sanctity by utilizing more and more the means of sanctification offered to them by the sodality. They also engage in external works of mercy, typified by the Christmas Drive. The influence of our sodality extends itself to the other sodalities in the area.

The Saint John Berchmans Society

The Berchmans Society derives its name from a young Jesuit saint who died during his studies for the priesthood. Because of his devout realization of the values of the sacrifice of the mass, St. John has been designated as the patron of all altar boys. It is fitting that our group of mass servers here be named in his honor. This society provides mass servers for the Wednesday Duces mass and for the weekly K B S. mass. The more stout-hearted early risers also come every day to serve the masses of the Jesuit priests on the faculty. Fr. Sturtzet, S.J., undertakes the training and supervision of this society.

Teresi and Lackenmeier serve one of the early masses.

Classes

Second year students are called sophomores and some of them actually delve into the Greek roots of their name under the guidance of Mr. Brzoska, S.J. The grammar is a puzzle to you (especially for two hours in January), but you suffer through it, patiently waiting for your first look at the literature of the language. You take your first halting steps, two parasangs, with Xenophon, confident that the path will eventually lead you to the gates of Troy.

"Speech? ? But I've been talking all my life". Maybe you have even been talking all day, but once a week you learn how to speak more correctly. In first year, you learned how not to talk; now you are ready to learn the right way to do things. You try for better diction, for more poise, for correct posture. And surprisingly, at the end of the year, you find you can actually make a fairly decent speech (if only your friends in the first two rows would stop laughing)

If you have tears to shed, prepare to shed them now". For in second year English, you meet some really tragic figures, Julius Caesar, Enoch Arden. You see how language can convey ideas and emotions. Meantime you go on with your own sad struggle to incorporate the successful techniques of the authors you read into your own writing. "Now for the week end composition Religion. After a theoretical study of religion in first year, you now see the more practical angle to our Faith—one you use in your daily life. You study the seven sacraments considering how each one in turn is really a sacrament and how it is a channel of grace for you. Furthermore you review the meaning of sacramental and you consider the sacramentals and the devotions of the church that can enrich your spiritual life.

Latin: First year seemed a jumble of "se", "ibus", and "issent". In second year, you put them together and try to make sense out of Caesar's operations in the North. You march in and out of castra with copiae and frumentum till you are more befuddled than Caesar's enemies. But with capable guides, by June you can handle those obscure ablative absolutes as well as any of Caesar's readers at Rome.

German: You start a strange language, Deutsch. You begin with "Allerlei"—"many different things", almost too many you complain. Somehow the German is not too difficult and before you know it you are struggling through droll anecdotes (or so the author thought) about how Frederic, the Great, fiddled with his shoe laces and Mozart with his harpsichord. Take heart for next year you study grim fairy tales, and as seniors, geography, auf deutsch.

History. American History occupies your attention. For all the fascination of Caesar's historical account, it cannot match the appeal of the study of America's rise to prominence as a world power. The teachers fill out the skeleton of grammar school knowledge you have from Plymouth Rock to Pearl Harbor with the flesh and blood of the economic and political backgrounds of America. It is a fascinating study.

Mathematics. In second year, a new word enters your vocabulary, theorem. Close on its heels follows axiom, postulate, and several other geometric terms. You find that each has a meaning all its own. Once you master them, you are ready for the problems bisecting the angles and lines. Geometry is intriguing and so are those little problems you carve into the desk with the compasses.

Scholastic Activities

A knight is commonly looked upon as a great warrior in gleaming armor who went about the country fighting battles with a huge broadsword. Few think of the knight as a ruler who had to govern his domain wisely. But to give a correct picture of the knight we must recall that he was a civil administrator who needed cautious judgment to settle disputes among hot-headed vassals and that he was a judge who presided over criminal trials. As a ruler too, the knight had to know how to handle his subjects wisely, to rouse them to battle by stirring oratory when necessary, to quell their ardent spirits when discretion made peace practical. The training of the knight prepared him for all these phases of life. Our training at Camillus also makes provision for our life beyond the miniature arena we have here. In the Student Council we learn the principles of good government. In debating and dramatics we learn how to speak convincingly and to guide opinion. In the myriad intellectual activities we work to improve our own knowledge and to utilize this knowledge in moulding opinion and forming sound judgments that will help us in the larger arena of life.

The members engage in a lively discussion that will have school-wide consequences.

Every Thursday during the sixth period the Student Council assembles to discuss school activities and government. Each class is represented at these meetings by its class president, and the more important school activities also have personal representatives. This year the Council was instrumental in effecting a student proctor system in the cafeteria that has proved very helpful. A constitutional crisis arose early in the year and a committee was appointed to revise the whole constitution and bring it up to date. Perhaps the most lasting work of the Council will be the publication of the "C" book which will be a pamphlet describing all the activities of the school. This book will also explain various school policies and it should prove invaluable in helping freshmen assimilate themselves to school life here.

Mr. Wilson of Jamestown discusses the schedule with Mr. Hennesey.

The fortieth anniversary season of the Behrens began in November when two teams travelled to the Hamilton College Tournament. At home, meanwhile, debates followed in quick succession with Mt. St. Mary's, St. Joe's, D'Youville College, and Canisius College. In February, The Behrens invaded Rochester to defeat a strong Aquinas team, and they also inaugurated a series with St. Michael's in Toronto. Feb. 11th marked the high point of the season when our debaters took 19 out of 27 debates from the traditionally strong Jamestown High school team. By the end of February, mid-point in the season, the won-lost tally stood at 48-29. During March, the Behrens faced Loretto Academy, Niagara Falls, and played host to St. Michael's, Aquinas, and some area schools. This anniversary season, one of the most complete in recent years, ended with the Behrens looking forward to various state competitions and to the annual prize debate on May 4th.

The highlight of the autumn season at Canisius is the annual presentation of a Shakespearean drama. This year, the Canisius Dramatic Society, under the direction of Fr. Charles Dolan, S.J., choose "Macbeth" as a suitable vehicle for the talents of Al Hetzelt, David Paa, David Swanz, and the other stalwart Thespians.

Our large stage here presented many problems to the tyro actors, but they surmounted them all to give a very creditable performance of the tragedy of Scotland. Two performances were held for the student body and their parents, along with a dress rehearsal matinee for the grammar schools of the area.

Where is the tablecloth for the banquet scene?

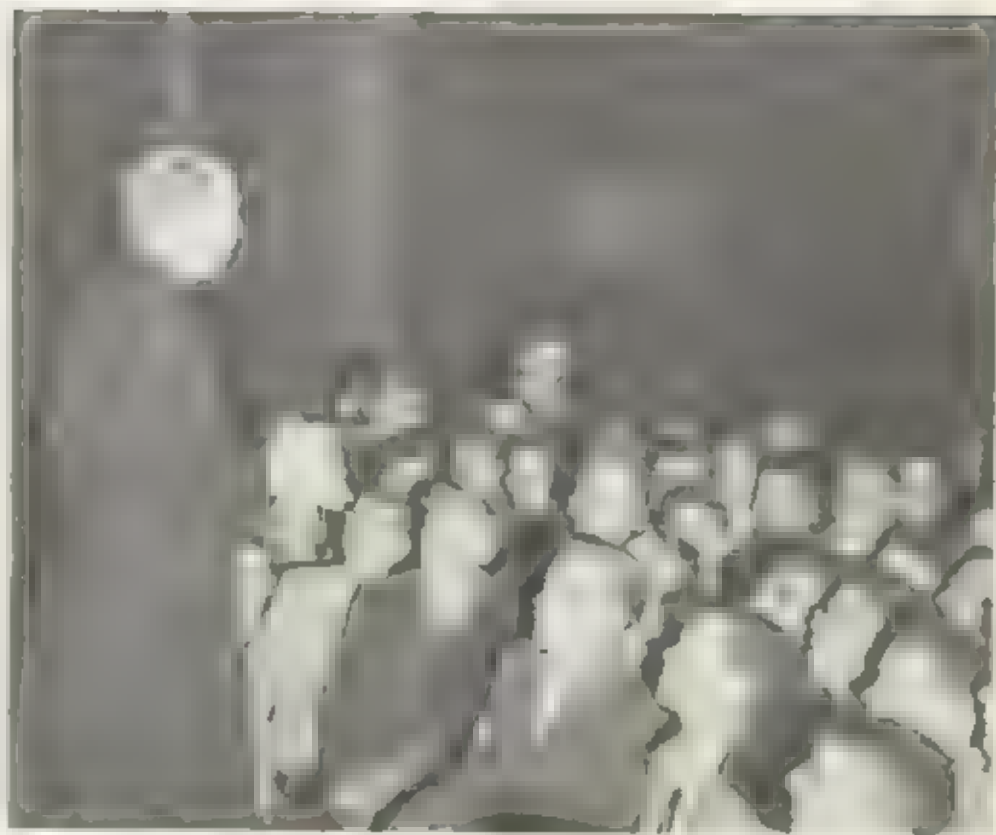

Ab! There it is.

From This Chaotic Rehearsal . . .

For the fourth year now, Canisius has held a Passion Play to portray graphically for our student body and for the Catholics of Buffalo the scenes of Our Lord's passion and death.

The difficult role of Christus was handled by Erwin Walker, while Daniel Nalbach and Alfred Hetzelt played important supporting parts. Again the production was directed by Fr. Dolan who has been instrumental in continuing the Lenten tradition here at Canisius.

Will Result This Polished Passion Play

The Stage Crew

Much of the credit for the successful presentations of the dramatic society goes to the Stage Crew. Under the direction of Mr. Meenan, S.J., Dan Jenkins, and Kevin Mugridge they turned out professional sets for Macbeth and the Passion Play. Our large stage presents several staging problems but the unsung heroes behind the footlights solved them all, even to bringing Birnam Wood to Dunsinane

Meet The Citadel Staff

In each issue of the Citadel, the staff does a pen profile on some personality or on some activity connected with the school. Now the Arena yearbook does the same for the energetic publishers of the school newspaper.

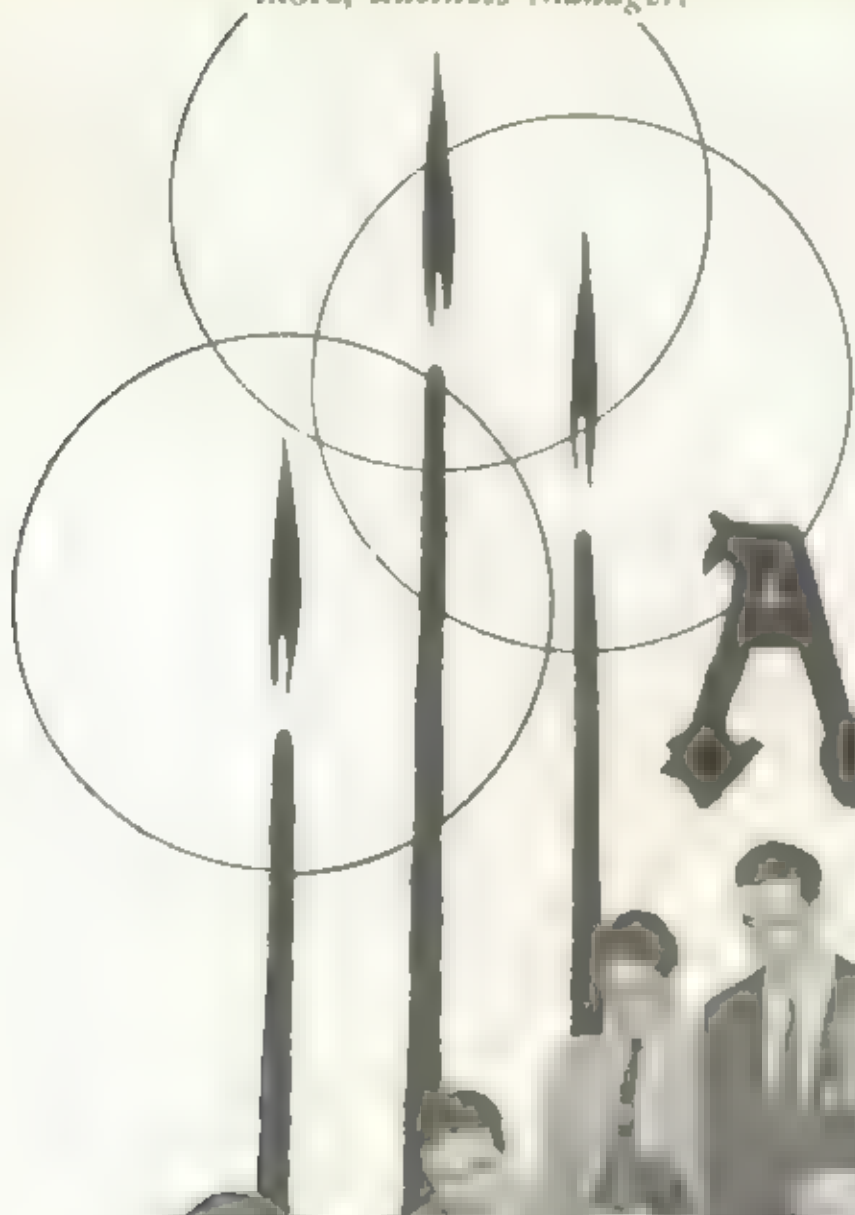

Six times a year the Citadel hits the Canisius newsstands with a timely summary of school events and activities. The overall production is supervised by Mr. Fischer, S.J. Under his direction, Jim Dunnigan, the editor, gets out a paper that rivals the Courier or the News. Birmingham, Sullivan, Stoneham, and Schwab contribute their services with the pencil and paste.

The Citadel has a new look this year since the format was changed. This has meant a bigger and better Citadel. Our congratulations to the staff for their contribution to school life.

SCHOLARSHIP CLASSES

The scholarship class is an extracurricular activity with an eminently practical aim. Its purpose is to prepare the juniors and seniors for competition in the State examinations. The class members meet daily for an extra period before the regular class begins or they journey in for a two hour session on Saturday.

These classes supplement the regular school educational program with courses in biology, music appreciation, fine arts, and so on. The burden of the teaching is done by Mr. McTaggart, who heads the educational guidance department. Other faculty members are called on from time to time to lecture on special pertinent subjects.

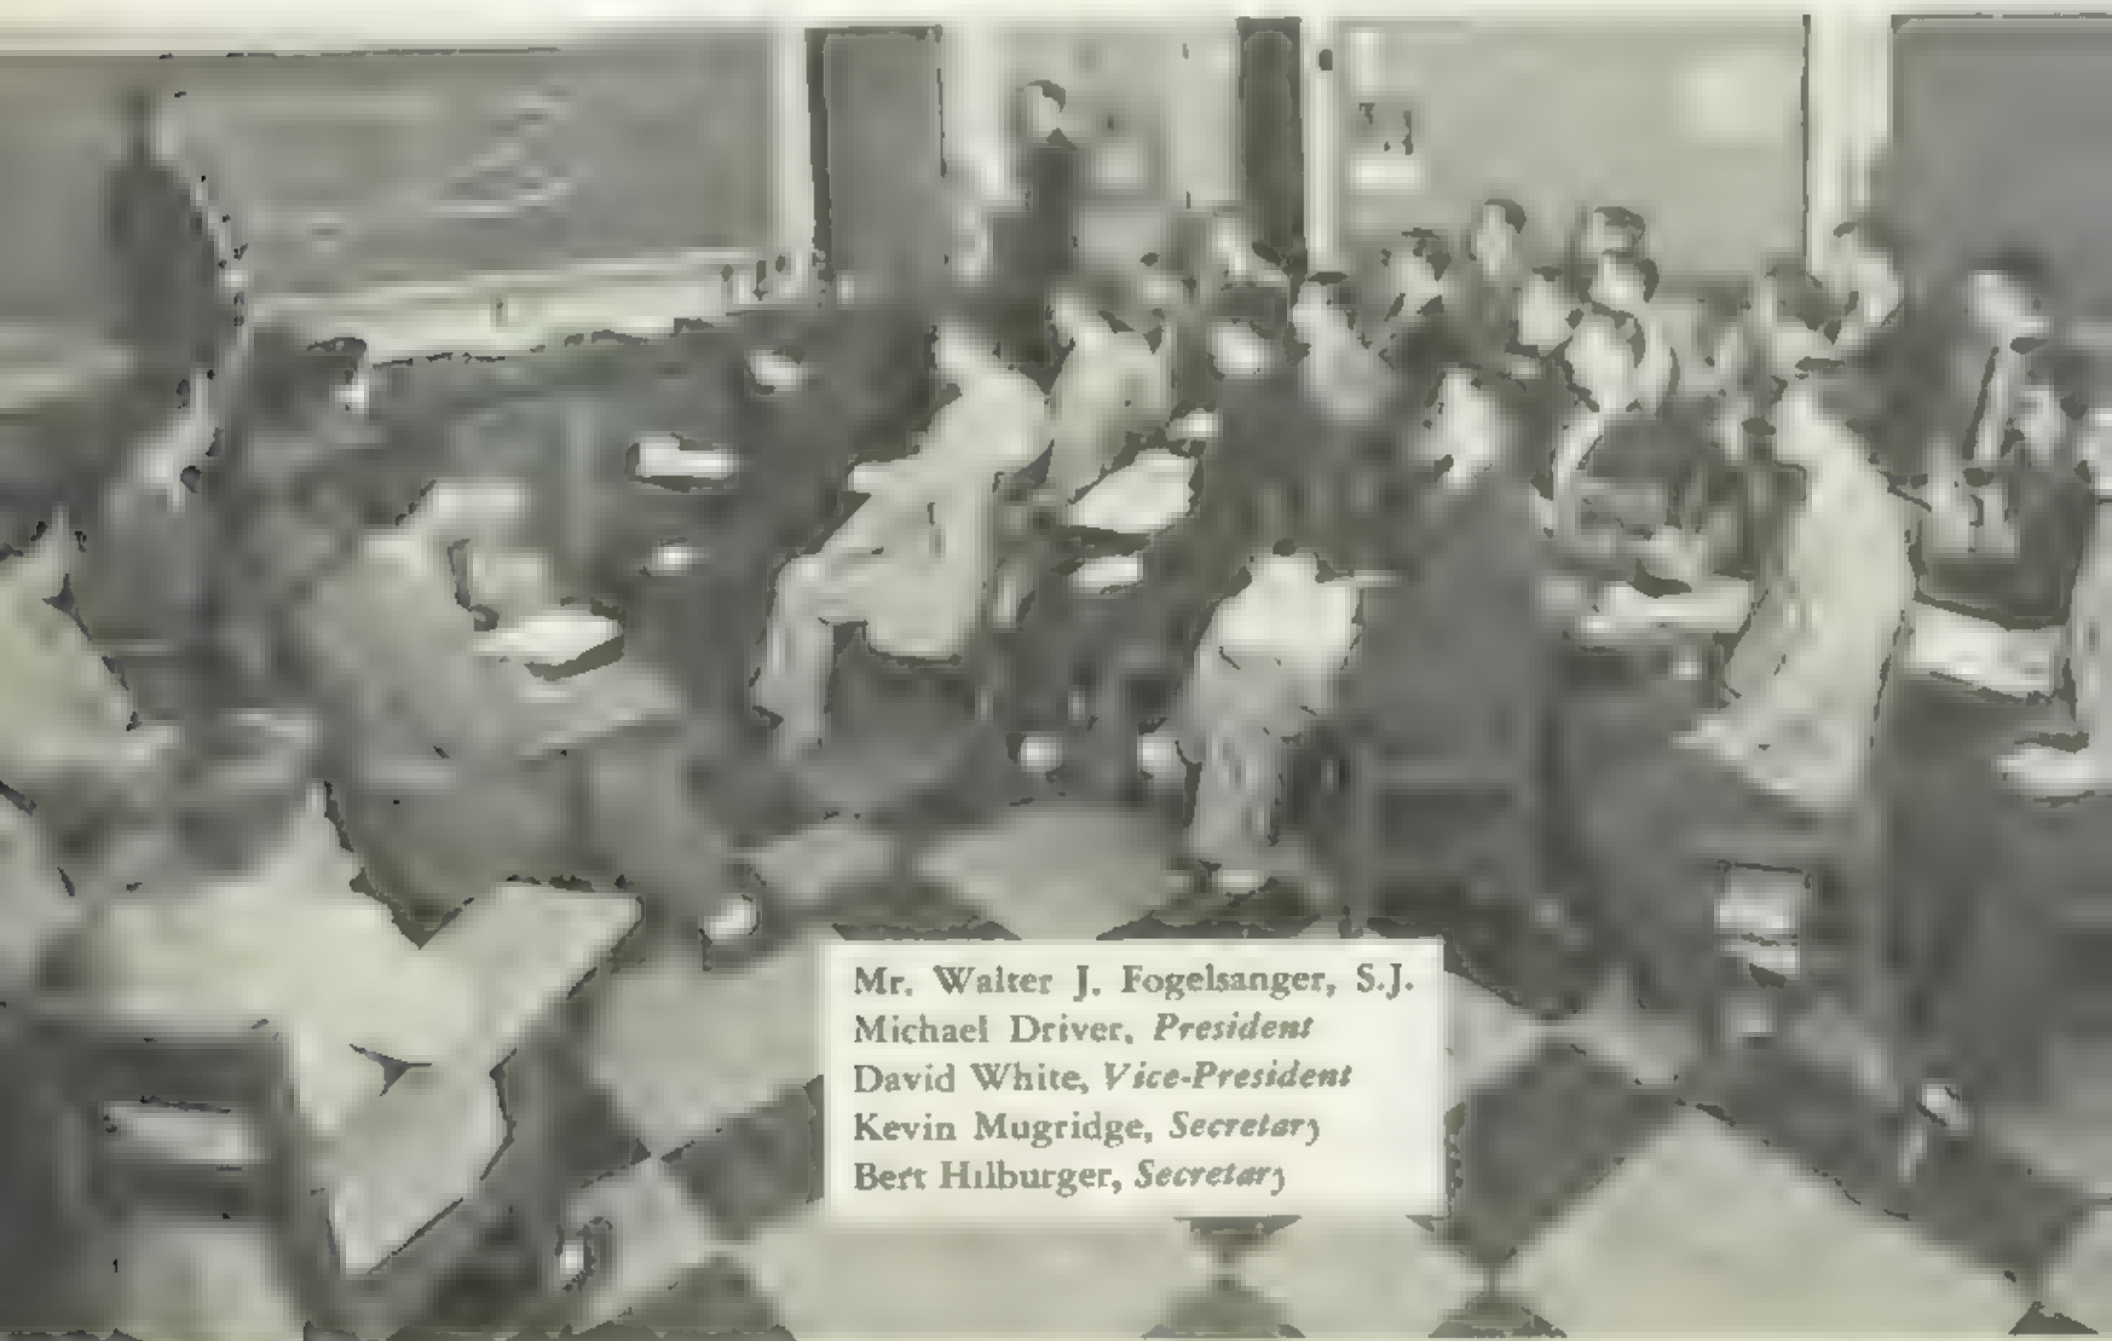

The Science Club—

helps keep the arts and sciences balanced.

The members of the Science Club meet weekly to discuss scientific questions and to hear lectures prepared by the members. Each member undertakes some project during the year and reports his findings to the group. All this is intended to augment the regular physics and chemistry courses, and to bring home to the students the opportunities open to them in the field of science.

In line with this goal tours are conducted throughout the local plants where the students see industrial science at work. These tours serve to put flesh and blood on the academic questions considered in the regular science course.

Canisius tumbles to a touchdown against St. Francis.

The 1953 version of the Crusaders had a veteran line playing hard at an entire backfield. Our defense of the Notre Dame trophy was not be an easy task despite, Hickey, Grahame, Swanz, Myska, and company.

Our first game, even St. Joe's, loomed up as the first test. The Civic Stadium rooters were treated to a 1-0 victory and spirits lifted. Daily was next in line and after a first period scare, they fought victoriously the first improving Crusaders, Francis began to shine on defense in the backfield, while Hohl and Walentynowicz proved we could score the needed touchdowns.

St. Francis was next to bow to the Crusaders. De Saes gave the team a first time before a last minute splurge put the game on ice. Our team could win under pressure, but it began to dawn on the loyal fans that our club was not invincible. Meanwhile Timon was winning every week. The Ryan game gave us a breather and then Timon joined on the schedule.

On that eventful Friday night of the Timon Game, the Civic Stadium goal lines were crossed but once. Timon earned the trick with Ryan running from a snake wing in the second period. Canisius went down to defeat for the first time in TWENTY-THREE games. They lost the title but not the respect of the rooters. But for a few costly fumbles the score could easily have been reversed.

Our seniors bowed out in a blaze of glory against Timon as they started a new streak. Myska, Grahame, Hick, and Wally left content for the future since Kenny Hohl had clinched the season scoring title. It looked like Canisius would be a threat for at least another year.

Canisius, Alma Mater

*Canisius, Alma Mater,
The glory of thy name,
Thy wisdom strong,
We sing as long
As memories remain*

*Thy voice is mighty,
Linking our years,
Mighty thy memories
Through hopes, joys and fears.*

*Canisius, mighty power,
Thy sons keep true and bold,
Their love for thy honor,
Canisius Blue and Gold.*

More
For You

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.

And so is knowledge WITHOUT WISDOM
WITHOUT MORALITY
WITHOUT LOVE FOR WHAT IS TRUE,
BEAUTIFUL, AND GOOD

CATHOLIC EDUCATION gives you all you need to make your way in the world.
It offers courses which will lead to a degree which will be regarded highly in any part of the world.

CATHOLIC EDUCATION does more than that however. It trains your will and develops the kind of personality which we look for in a Christian gentleman.

CATHOLIC EDUCATION gives you the ability to analyze and to solve problems of life which will face you — economic, social, civic, and moral.

STAY WITH THE JESUITS

Secular education has never been adequate. There has seldom been a time when its inadequacies were most apparent.

Stay with the Jesuits — As you learn facts, you will learn values. The facts you learn will give you as great a potential for material success, as you will receive elsewhere. The values you learn will give you potential for success as a man.

- . you spent hours in thought, you could find no greater work of charity than to bring Christ to men and men to Him through priests.
- . you will, you can give the world more priests through a Scholarship Burse for a Jesuit Seminarian. Our 600 Seminarists are supported entirely by charitable contributions during their 15-year course of studies. They pay no tuition; they are not asked for a "dowry"; nor are their parents asked to pay any of their bills. Eight thousand dollars will establish a Scholarship Burse here at home, five thousand dollars a Burse in the missions.
- . you wish, you can donate to a Burse already started or include such a donation in your Will.
- . you wish further information about a Burse, write to
